The Political Situation.

The President's veto of the Freedman's Bureau bill, and his speech to the whenever the business of the street remass meeting in front of the White Mr. Lincoln's emancipation proclamation that has created so much exciterier 1 - has this message, and the state of feeling throughout the country is as intense as that which followed Gen. Jackson's famous veto of the United States Bank bill.

It has for some months been foreseen and predicted that a collision would oceur between the President and Congress; for on several vital questions, all connected with the future of the late confederate States, the executive and legislative branches of the Government were so antipodean, that a conflict was inevitable unless one or the other should change front and take the back track. This foreknowledge, or foreboding we might style it, has probably been beneficial, in that it has enabled the people to examine, understand and appreciate the exact issues involved in the great struggle. With equal fixedness of opinn, ardor of sentiment, and firmness of resolution, (and maybe with equal patriotic sense of duty,) the President and Congress have taken their positions. Deliberately they have made the issue, and earnestly they both appeal to the people-always the last resort in such cases under governments professing to be republican. We cannot disguise from ourselves that the struggle is to be fierce, relentless, and probably lengthy. It may assume proportions that will test the strength of our "government" as severely as did the late revolution.

What is to be the effect of this politieal agitation upon the business of the time such an omission occurs. By so country remains to be seen. No one can doing they will enable us to have them managed, with daily through trains, currency, if not a legal tender, and notes should fail to see these cheap, elegant predict the future of such things. Predictions of wiseacres in the past have as often been wrong as right. So far we ave to chronicle no panic, and no general anticipations of one. On the eontrary our southern correspondents and exchanges seem to be hopeful that for they will be quickly remedied if promptthem a better day is coming, and that this political storm will the sooner clear their atmosphere of much that they re-not surpass any grown in Europe.

"The market for the goods manufac-tured out of such stock is unlimited in this country—for reason that all fabrics of that kind are imported from Europe. Next year, if the wool could be procured by the farmers of the West or in any part of the country, we could use 100,-000 to 300,000 pounds, and we would be willing to give more than double what completed the same.

SEC. 2. That all contracts entered into under this act shall be in writing, and say to the farmers in your country that say to the farmers in your country that are engaged in breeding the Cashmere wool, that in a short time it will have unlimited demand throughout the United States. Manufactures, knowing the demand there is for the goods made from the Cashmere wool, will, as soon as they see the farmers commence to raise the wool, import the machinery and man-ufacture it into goods that are now all imported from the old country. The largest establishment in England and other countries in Europe, are engaged in working the Cashmere wool, and they have always found a ready market and an unlimited one for all the goods they have manufactured. So it is in this country. The market for Cashmere goods, so far, has never been large enough to meet the demand, although there has been a very large importation. We are perfectly willing to work up Cashmere, having the machinery to do it, and promise to do our part, if the farmers will do theirs in introducing into this country the breeding of Cashmere Wool, and manufacturing it into fabrics that are now all imported, and which are selling at very high prices in our market."

Where There's a Will There's a Way.

It was a noble Roman In Rome's Imperial day, Who heard a coward croaker, Before the battle say-"There is no way to shake it—"
"On! on!" exclaimed the hero, "I'll find a way or make it?"

Is Fame your aspiration? Her path is steep and high; In vain he seeks the temple, Content to gaze and sigh! The shining throne is waiting, But he alone can take it, Who says with Roman firmness-"I'll find a way or make it!"

Is learning your ambition There is no royal road; Alike the peer and peasant Must climb to her abode, Who feel the thirst for knowledge In Helicon may slake it, If he has the Roman will To "find a way or make it!"

Are riches worth the getting ? They must be bravely sought; With wishing and with fretting The boon cannot be sought? To all the prize is open,
But only he can take it,
Who says with Roman courage—

"I'il find a way or make it ?" In Love's impassioned warfare, The tale has ever been That victory crowns the valiant,

The brave are they who win; Though strong is beauty's eastle, A lover still may take it, Who says with Roman daring-"I'll find a way or make it!"

> Just at present, people are more liable to be imposed on in buying grape vines than any other plant, because the supply of some varieties is not equal to the demand. We have heard of a clever peddler who could go to a package of grape plants and take out any variety called for, either native or foreign, like the magician who pours from the same bottle any kind of liquor one can pos-sibly name. Similar feats of dexterity used to be performed among farmers, by men who made a business of going around grafting old apple trees. Some-how it always happened that they car-ried with them scions of just the kind wanted. One of these men, however, was observed replenishing his stock of seions from a common apple tree by the roadside. As might have been expect-ed, it turned out that many old trees had been engrafted with scions that bore

We advise our readers never to buy a fruit tree, grape vine, or other plant of unknown or irresponsible parties, whom very likely, they may never see or hear from after finding out that they have the steel and it must be remembered. planted at all approximating in extent to those of the years preceding the war. The general worthlessness of free negro field labor renders such a consumation impossible. Many of the largest plantations of the country will mainly grow up in weeds the coming year. #### Things About Town.

Our citizens should interest themselves in the prosperity of the House of Refuge. It has been established at an expenditure of more than $125,000, and is unquestionably the most important charitable institution connected with our city. It is intended to eradicate so far possible the crimes and vices from the hearts of the young; to take them from evil associations and throw around them the restraint of good society, proper education and industrial principles. As such it demands the sustenance of every citizen interested in the welfare of Louisville, and especially all the friends of humanity who would mitigate the great social evils of the day by striking at their foundation—the corruptibility of our youth.

The prospects of a prosperous spring trade are brightening, and Louisville, now the twelfth city in the United States, in point of population, manufactures and commerce, will soon asert her elaim for a still better classiication. The falling off in the production of Petroleum and the dying out of the excitement in regard to it, coincident with the cessation of the late civil war and York, Philadelphia and Boston, claim to import directly. The Western merchant therefore, can buy just as cheap as the readers some record of the discovery, development and great wealth of this marvelous product. Like the sudden discovery of a mine of wealth, it added immensely to the resources of the North during the most critical period of their tively small capital, created an intense tinancial contraction, renewing conti-dence in the midst of depression, bringing wealth in the period of great losses by the destruction of the shipping interests, his market, he can replenish oftener, and turning the balance of foreign exand needs not to lay in so heavy a stock. change largely in our favor when the Thus, he should be able by quick sales, military situation seemed to promise an altogether have been formed, with an to sell at a small profit. Now that the old commercial relations stock of the West cannot compare with the East. If this be so, why is it? Surely just because of the great putronage that has been extended to the East. But lines of hostile armies, again meet on common ground, this wonderful product has taken a minor place in the public interest, and attention is little called to t except by those directly interested in t, or of that numerous class who have

The next year prices improved considerably, receding in the spring of 1863, in consequence of the large flow of a great many wells. The extreme fluctuations have shown a range of prices for crude oil at the wells, from ten cents to thirteen dollars and fifty cents per bar-rel, and the average range has been. about equi-distant from these extremes. The additional value given to the produet by refining, storage, transportation, etc., have largely increased this ratio of prices. The best wells have fallen away and finally given out entirely, and that which was thought the most promising oil territory, has in hundreds of instances, proved worthless. The number of individuals made suddenly rich, has been large, but it has been in a great degree owing to the readiness with which the uninitiated under the influence of the excitement, were induced to make investments at fabulous prices. It is estimated that the whole oil territory of Pennsylvania might have been purchased a few years since for seven hundred thousand dol-lars, and now it is held to be worth more than two hundred and fifty millions. The amount of humbug, however, has been fully equal to the actual promise, and the number of individuals in every community, who have for some time past vainly sought to get rid of stock in some petroleum company unknown, on exchange, is very large. or give such thorough satisfac-

SIMPLE RELIABLE and

[From the Western Christian Advocate.] We have examined the principal Machines in use, and with an anxious desire to place be-fore our readers reliable information. As the result of such examination, we most unhesita-tingly recommend Wheeler & Wilson's Family Sewing Machine as the machine for family use. There are good, better and best, and the best machine, we feel entirely safe in saying, is Wheeler & Wilson's. [From the New York Times.] Wheeler & Wilson's Machines are the favorites for families, being especially adapted to that purpose. They work more rapidly, with less friction and a greater economy of thread,

[From the London Times.] "The Wheeler & Wilson Machine, which is the ONE BEST CALCULATED FOR HOUSEHOLD WORK, uses no shuttle, and makes the LOCK STITCH alike on than most, if not all, others.

HERDS GRASS, &c. both sides of the goods.

Some of the Sewing Machines are very extravagant in the use of thread; one of the most noted of those making the double-loop chainstitch, using six yards of thread to one of sewing. This is a serious matter, looked upon in a manufacturer's point of view, where the great aim is to economize the material."

> A Machine, whose merit has achieved such a world-wide renown and success, warranted three years by a responsible Company, and sat-isfaction guaranteed, it is no experiment to buy, and there is no investment which pays a better interest or brings more comfort, health, happiness

Call and see them, or send for a Circular and specimens of Sewing. With each Machine we furnish complete printed directions, and persons at a distance can soon learn to operate them.

Drilling Machines

THIS MACHINE IS NOT A NEW and untried invention, like many of the present day, gotten up by men of no experience. But it has been in constant use, and improved and thoroughly tested by men of genius and long experience in drilling, who have used it for eight years in boring artesian wells, through the hardest flint and line rock for water. It has proven its entire superfority over all other machinery for drilling, and challenges the world to preduce an other that can do the same work as fast if I the same money. It is very simple, and combines strength and durability in its construction, and much greater economy in its working than has ever been altimed by any other Machine now in use. It is easily worked with one horse, and requires but two men, who with ordinary mechinical capacity and industry, and fill from twenty to thirty feet per day in ordinary rock. By the construction of the bit it drills a smooth, I true and perfect hole from three to six inches in diameter, requiring no reamer, or man to tarm Paented May 7, 1861, and July 4, 1865 Premium taken at the Kentucky State Agricultural Fair, 1865.

This Press consists of but few parts, all simple and substantial.

One mule (or liorse) and five hands can press from 50 to 60 bales, weighing 500 lbs each, in one day of 10 hours; the bales, when finished, being 24 inches square and 4 feet long, or can be made, if desired, 20 inches square and 4 feet bus; thus avoiding the necessity of compressing them again for the Shin, and saving at least one half the bagging and rope, besides a great saving in height and hauling.

The Press, complete, (frame of the best while cak and well painted,) will be furnished at my Factory for $400, or delivered on board Bost, or at Baltrad Depot, for $625. When the purchaser priers, a complete set of irons, with drawings in detail, so that any compenter can get out the timber and put up the Press, will be furnished for $150, including the right to use, delivered on Bost, or at Railroad Depot. The Press, complete, weight $660 lbs; the irons only 1800 lbs.
